Mr. Andrew

Dear Andrew,

As you know Fair Isaac (FICO) and [REDACTED] are parties to the [REDACTED] dated December 24, 2004 (the "Agreement") for the Blaze Advisor Development and Deployment license for use with certain [REDACTED] products. We have raised the concern several times that the merger of [REDACTED] into the [REDACTED] organization violates the anti-assignment clause of section 13.12 regardless of the style of the merger, including most recently with your team and yourself well over a week ago. I am disappointed that I have not received any correspondence or contact from you since we last met.

While these discussions have been on-going most vigorously over the past several months, we have asserted that under California law, which governs the Agreement the license is not capable of assignment without first obtaining FICO's consent. We have previously provided you with a detailed trail of email and events confirming the above. We have rejected your assertion that the license does not require assignment, providing you with applicable legal references, including the very case where [REDACTED] took the position FICO has asserted since [REDACTED]

Inasmuch as we have not heard from you as promised, this letter serves as formal notice that [REDACTED] is in breach of the agreement and demand is made to cure such breach immediately. We have advised you of the appropriate cure path [REDACTED] We will honor the discounted pricing through June 28, 2012, after which time the cure rate will be standard list price for the license and maintenance. Alternatively of course, you may simply surrender the license, including removal of the software and [REDACTED]

Please immediately advise as to your intentions.

Very truly yours,

FICO
